Westfield artist John Russell illustrated the front cover of our inaugural issue of "Our Town" by depicting the new gazebo built on the Village Green through the dedication and commitment of students from the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools in Scotch Plains.

The project represents one way in which young people are contributing to the growth and success of the community.

John has a growing business illustrating homes, families and pets.

A Preface to Our Town

Beauty, pride and bustling with energy, that's Scotch Plains. It extends from our pastoral south plains to our vibrant downtown in the north. While anchored in tradition and independence, the people of Scotch Plains are advancing to create the community life for our future.

Nothing symbolizes this more than the spirit and commitment of our youth. To them, we dedicate this inaugural edition of "Our Town."

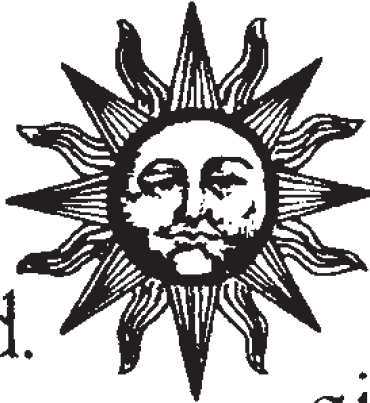

We all share in the spirit of the community's undertakings by making investments to ensure the future. After four decades of serving the township, The Times presents the first edition of "Our Town" as one part of the investment for the future of our people and for .... "Our Town."

We hope you enjoy this publication reflecting today. We look forward to partnering with the township for the exciting future.
